Τ	PROCEEDINGS
2	(11:35 a.m.)
3	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: We'll hear
4	argument next in Case Number 19-267, Our Lady of 5	Guadalupe School versus Agnes Morrissey-Berru,
6	and the consolidated case.
7	Mr. Rassbach.
8	ORAL ARGUMENT OF ERIC C. RASSBACH
9	ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS
10	MR. RASSBACH: Mr. Chief Justice, and 11	may it please the Court:
12	If separation of church and state
13	means anything at all, it must mean the 14	government cannot interfere with the church's 15	decisions about who is authorized to teach its 16	religion.
17	In this country, it is emphatically
18	not the province of judges, juries, or 19	government officials to decide who ought to 20	teach Catholic fifth graders that Jesus is the 21	son of God or who ought to teach Jewish
22	preschoolers what it means to say: Hear, O
23	Israel, the Lord your God, the Lord is one.
24	And at bottom, that is what these 25	cases are about: who controls who teaches the 1 faith to schoolchildren. 2 Under Hosanna-Tabor, the answer is easy. Churches must choose those who "teach 3 their faith." Indeed, that is one of the most 4 5 important religious functions for any religious 6 community, passing the faith on to the next 7 generation. 8 And since the teachers here were the 9 churches' primary agents for teaching the 10 Catholic faith to fifth graders, teaching them for hours a week, much more than parish priests, 11 12 they fall within the ministerial exception 13 immunity. 14 Respondents would have the Court 15 ignore all that, substituting a formalistic standard that relies first and foremost on the 16 17 employees' title to determine whether the 18 ministerial exception applies. That would 19 wrongly elevate form over function and force 20 judges to decide what titles sound religious 21 enough to qualify, and it would hopelessly entangle church and state. Unsurprisingly, no 22 23 court has ever adopted Respondents' title test. 24 If Respondent's arguments give some members of the Court $d\Theta j\alpha$ vu all over again,

- 1 that is because Respondents have recycled many
- of the arguments the Court unanimously rejected
- 3 eight years ago in Hosanna-Tabor. The pretext
- 4 inquiry, the notice requirement, the idea that
- 5 freedom of association makes freedom of religion
- 6 entirely unnecessary all were raised in
- 7 Hosanna-Tabor and rejected unanimously. Eight
- 8 years later, Respondents' arguments are not any
- 9 more convincing.
- In short, there's no reason for - government to get in the business of teaching
- 12 religion. The Ninth Circuit should be reversed.
- 13 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Counsel, you
- say in your brief that personnel is policy and
- that teachers, as part of their job, personify
- 16 church values. Is that enough to trigger the
- 17 exception in your case?
- 18 MR. RASSBACH: I -- I think, in -- in
- this case, I don't think that's something you
- 20 have to address, and I don't think that it would
- 21 -- personification --
- 22 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Well, I don't
- 23 -- I don't have to address it, but you do
- 24 because I asked.
- 25 (Laughter.)

1
                MR. RASSBACH: Yes, Your Honor. I -- 2
      I think, on -- on the basis of personification alone, I don't -- I don't think that that would 3 necessarily mean -- mean that we would win the case.
 6
                I think that the -- the right answer is that it's something -- they -- what functions
8 were they performing, and those functions were to teach the faith for hours on end over the course of a week.
10
                CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Does your
12 argument, both with respect to personifying values as a factor and with the other functions
14 that the teachers might perform, apply in the 15 case of teachers who are not Catholic because many Catholic schools hire teachers who -- who aren't?
17
18
                MR. RASSBACH: So -- so I -- I don't 19 think it -- it does. Hosanna-Tabor rejected the 20 idea that there was a problem with non-Lutherans 21 teaching Lutheran doctrine to Lutheran kids at a 22 Lutheran school. And, ultimately, religious 23 bodies get to decide who best performs those 24 important religious functions, and courts really 25 shouldn't be in the business of second-guessing

1 that.
```

- 2 I would point the Court to some of the
- 3 briefs, for example, the Stephen Wise Temple
- 4 brief, which talks about how difficult it would
- 5 be for Jewish entities if they could not hire
- 6 non-coreligionists.
- 7 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 8 Thomas?
- 9 JUSTICE THOMAS: Yes, counsel, how
- 10 would you -- how exactly would you go about, or
- 11 a secular court go about, determining whether an
- 12 employee's duties and functions are religious or
- whether they're important?
- MR. RASSBACH: Well, I -- I think -- I
- 15 think the -- the best way to think about it is,
- 16 with respect to the religious part of it, I
- 17 think you -- you have to -- you can look at the
- 18 -- the list of things that this Court talked
- about in Hosanna-Tabor, so teaching, preaching,
- 20 as well as the -- the list that was in the
- 21 concurrence by Justice Alito, and look at those
- as a kind of safe harbor in terms of, if one of
- 23 those things is present, then -- then it clearly
- is an important religious function.
- 25 But then, if you -- if you -- let's

1 say you have something where the church is -- or 2 the religious defendant is raising some other 3 thing as an important religious function, then I think you probably -- you -- you would -- you 4 would have to look -- do some deference to the 5 6 church's understanding of that. 7 So -- and -- and this is pointed out 8 actually in the brief by Professor McConnell where he talks about substantial deference on 9 10 both the importance question and the religious 11 question. 12 JUSTICE THOMAS: Thank you. CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice 1.3 14 Ginsburg? 15 JUSTICE GINSBURG: I would appreciate 16 your answers to two questions. One is, who among the religious schools' employees, who 17 18 among them are not ministers? 19 The second question is one that the Chief already alluded to. You do not have to be 20

23

24

Catholic to be a fifth or sixth grade teacher.

How can a Jewish teacher be required to model

Catholic faith, counter to his or her own beliefs -- how can a Jewish teacher be a 1 MR. RASSBACH: So, to answer both of 2 your questions, Your Honor, with respect to who is not covered, I -- I think it would include 3 anyone who's not performing important religious 4 5 functions, so, for example, the janitor. 6 there you have the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation 7 case that we cite in our briefing, where the 8 janitor, although he did explain what a Sukkah 9 was to the schoolchildren, still did not -- did 10 not want that to -- he -- that did not qualify him -- him as a minister. And that was cited 11 12 under Hosanna-Tabor. 1.3 I think the same thing would be true 14 of someone who, for example, is just doing the 15 IT for the company or the school. As for --16 17 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Yes, whether 18 coaches, the athletic coaches, they would be 19 ministers too? 20 MR. RASSBACH: I don't -- I don't think a coach -- did you say coach, Your Honor? 21 22 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Uh-huh. 2.3 MR. RASSBACH: Yes, I don't think a 24 coach would necessarily be one. It would really 25 depend on whether the -- the person -- the

- 1 particular person is performing important
- 2 religious function. If they're just a coach and
- 3 don't do any kinds of functions, then they would
- 4 not come in under the exception.
- 5 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Suppose they lead
- 6 the -- the team in an opening prayer.
- 7 MR. RASSBACH: I think that if they do
- 8 an opening prayer, you know, forget what I --
- 9 you know, I think that there would be -- just
- saying that, just doing that would probably come
- 11 within something like the Sukkah situation with
- 12 the Baltimore Hebrew Congregation case where
- it's essentially de minimis. It's not something
- 14 that -- that by itself does that.
- I think, in reality, that's not going
- 16 to be a very big class of cases because usually,
- if they're doing -- leading a prayer before the
- game, they're also doing a host of other kinds
- 19 of activities --
- 20 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 21 Breyer?
- MR. RASSBACH: -- in that event.
- JUSTICE BREYER: I think that the
- 24 statute itself provides for a religious
- exemption for hiring the person of a particular

- 1 religion where that's connected with the
- 2 carrying on of the religious organization's
- 3 activities.
- 4 There is also the BFOQ, the Bona Fide
- 5 Occupational Qualification. So I thought this
- 6 case has to do where a religious organization
- 7 might dismiss someone on the basis of race or
- 8 religion or national origin where that isn't
- 9 related to religious -- where that isn't related
- 10 to the carrying on of the religious activity,
- 11 for example, a person who's handicapped.
- Now why should the minister -- isn't
- it enough to have the ministerial exemption
- 14 apply to that kind of thing, that is, whether a
- 15 person holds a position of religious leadership
- or authority? Well, there's different --
- different kinds of evidence that would show
- 18 that.
- So why do you need more than that?
- 20 MR. RASSBACH: Well, I think it's -- I - think it's because of the Establishment Clause,
- 22 Your Honor. The -- you know, this is not just a
- 23 sort of bilateral interaction between the
- 24 employer on one side and the employee on the
- other. There's also a third ox that's getting

1 gored here, which is the -- society's interest 2 in not controlling religious functions.
 3 You know, we have a -- a system of separation of church and state. And the process of teaching schoolchildren what to believe -- 6 JUSTICE BREYER: On the basis -- I 7 don't want to interrupt, but on the basis of 8 what you say so far, I take it to my question, 9 which is what do the religious organizations 10 need other than the exception in the statute, the BFOQ, and the ministerial exemption as
12 confined to leadership, and your answer seems to 1.3
      be they don't.
14
                MR. RASSBACH: No, no, they -- 15
                JUSTICE BREYER: Rather, there's a -- MR. RASSBACH: -- they absolutely -- 16 they absolutely do, Justice Breyer. And -- 17 18 JUSTICE BREYER: How?
19
                MR. RASSBACH: -- and -- and -- because -- because, to have control over what
21 they are doing and to be able to control the 22 performance of this important religious 23 function, conveying the faith to younger kids, 24 that -- that is a -- that is a free exercise 25 right that they absolutely have and should have.

1 And I don't think that the BFOQ 2 exception or Title VII or any of the other --3 JUSTICE BREYER: Religious exemptions 4 MR. RASSBACH: -- statutes can 5 6 overrule that. 7 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice Alito? 8 JUSTICE ALITO: Oh, let me follow up 9 on that question. The -- the religious 10 exemption, if it applied here, would permit the school to hire only a Catholic to teach the --11 12 this -- in this capacity, right? It would not 1.3 -- it would not address the question whether the 14 school could dismiss somebody who is a Catholic 15 because that person is not teaching the faith in the way in which the school wants. 16 Is that -- is that a correct 17 18 understanding? 19 MR. RASSBACH: I -- I -- I think that 20 -- I think that you're right, Justice Alito, 21 in -- in this sense. Hiring and firing are 22 clearly covered by the ministerial exception, 23 but there are other kinds of religious autonomy 24 doctrines that might come to bear. 25 If, for example, you know, the example

- 1 we used in our briefing of the employee of the
- 2 synagogue school who starts wearing anti-Semitic
- 3 T-shirts to school, that is -- that has to be
- 4 covered by other kinds of religious autonomy and
- 5 First Amendment doctrines, not just the
- 6 ministerial exception.
- 7 So, even if the janitor did that, it
- 8 would fall other one of those other kinds of
- 9 doctrines, not under the ministerial exception
- 10 itself.
- 11 JUSTICE ALITO: Well, I took Justice
- 12 Breyer's question to mean why isn't the
- exemption in Title VII that allows religion to
- be a qualification for certain jobs sufficient
- 15 to address the question of a teacher who teaches
- 16 religion in a religiously affiliated school?
- 17 MR. RASSBACH: Right. So it is true,
- 18 Your Honor, that the -- the -- if you -- if the
- 19 person is -- is teaching -- is not -- if the --
- 20 if the bona fide -- if the -- if the BFOQ
- 21 exception applies here, it -- it -- it wouldn't
- actually cover most of the kinds of people that
- 23 carry out the important religious functions. So
- there's a disjunct between the two things.
- JUSTICE ALITO: Thank you.

Τ	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
2	Sotomayor?
3	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Counsel, there's a
4	difference between a teacher who teaches a
5	religion class in a secular school and a teacher
6	who teaches religion in a religious school, but 7	I'm not sure what the difference is, meaning,
8	can you point me to anything in the evidence
9	that the teacher here was acting any differently
10	working from a workbook for her religious class
11	than a teacher does in a secular school? That's 12	my first question.
13	My second question is, I think what's 14	being confused here is that you're asking for an 15	exception to law that's broader than the 16	ministerial exception generally and broader than 17	is necessary to protect the church.
18	The two teachers at issue here are not
19	claiming that they were fired because the school
20	thought they were teaching religion wrong. One
21	says she was fired because she came down with 22	cancer and was fired for a medical condition.
23	The other claims it was because of age. She had 24	been there for many, many years and had been 25	very acceptable to the school, and all of a

- 1 sudden, she reaches a certain age and she's
- 2 fired.
- 3 So you're asking for an exception to
- 4 the Family and Medical Leave Act, to wage and
- 5 hourly laws, to all sorts of laws, including
- 6 breach of contract because at least one of the
- 7 schools here, contract with the teacher says
- 8 they won't discriminate because of the teacher's
- 9 age or disability.
- 10 So you're asking for something broader
- 11 than giving the -- the schools the power to hire
- or fire certain kinds of people because of how
- they teach the religion or don't teach it, and
- 14 you haven't explained to me why it's necessary.
- MR. RASSBACH: So --
- JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: I don't understand
- what leadership role or proselytizing role these
- 18 teachers played in simply teaching about
- 19 religion.
- MR. RASSBACH: So -- so, Your Honor,
- 21 they -- they absolutely were doing much more
- 22 than teaching about religion. They were
- 23 teaching it devotionally, and they were -- they
- 24 were proselytizing. Their job, number one, and
- 25 their overriding commitment was to -- to teach

- 1 these kids to become Catholic and to believe in
- 2 the Catholic faith.
- 3 So I don't think that -- I just -- I'm
- 4 not sure I agree with the premise of the
- 5 question. With respect to, you know, religious
- 6 reasons, first -- first of all, you know, the --
- 7 Hosanna-Tabor rejected that -- that exact same
- 8 argument and said it missed the point of the
- 9 ministerial exception, and the reason it missed
- 10 it was because it's inherently -- it's
- inherently entangling to transfer authority and
- 12 control over a position that teaches the faith
- devotionally from church to state.
- So the suggestion --
- 15 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
- 16 counsel.
- Justice Kagan?
- 18 JUSTICE KAGAN: Mr. Rassbach, I have a
- 19 too-long list of hypotheticals, so I'm hoping
- that you can answer them in just a few words,
- 21 like basically, yes, he qualifies, no, he
- 22 doesn't qualify.
- So here's the first one. A math
- teacher who is told to teach something about
- Judaism for 10 minutes a week.

- 1 MR. RASSBACH: And if he's teaching it
- 2 devotionally?
- JUSTICE KAGAN: Let's just say this is
- 4 all -- that's all you know about him.
- 5 MR. RASSBACH: That's all I know about
- 6 him. Then I -- then -- then I would -- then I
- 7 would say probably not --
- 8 JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay.
- 9 MR. RASSBACH: -- because it would be
- 10 de minimis.
- 11 JUSTICE KAGAN: A math teacher who
- 12 comes in and you -- you mentioned the Shema at
- the beginning of your remarks, a very important
- 14 prayer, takes about 20 seconds to say, a math
- teacher who was told to begin every class with
- 16 a -- leading the Shema.
- 17 MR. RASSBACH: I -- I -- I don't -- I
- don't think that that is likely to fall within
- 19 it because I think it would, again, be de
- 20 minimis under the --
- JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay. A math teacher
- 22 who was told to embody Jewish values and infuse
- 23 instruction with Jewish values.
- MR. RASSBACH: If it's that alone,
- 25 probably not. But it really depends on how that

- 1 2 JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay. 3 MR. RASSBACH: -- cashes out in actual 4 practice. 5 JUSTICE KAGAN: Yeah, okay. I really 6 am asking -- asking these things alone. 7 MR. RASSBACH: Okay. JUSTICE KAGAN: A nurse at a Catholic 8 9 hospital who prays with sick patients and is 10 told otherwise to tend to their religious needs. MR. RASSBACH: I -- I think a nurse 11 12 doing that kind of counseling and prayer may 13 well fall within the exception. 14 JUSTICE KAGAN: May well fall within 15 it? Okay. MR. RASSBACH: Yes. 16 17 JUSTICE KAGAN: A press or a 18 communications staffer who prepares press 19 releases for a religious institution of all 20 kinds that they need?
- 21 MR. RASSBACH: That -- that should
- fall within it because of communication under
- 23 the Alicea-Hernandez case from the Seventh
- 24 Circuit.
- JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay. A counselor at

- 1 a church-affiliated rehab clinic who urges his
- 2 patients to reconnect with their faith
- 3 community?
- 4 MR. RASSBACH: That -- that would be a
- 5 -- probably, but it depends on how much
- 6 connecting there is.
- 7 JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay. An employee at
- 8 a soup kitchen who distributes religious
- 9 literature and leads grace before meals?
- 10 MR. RASSBACH: My guess is that that
- 11 would be de minimis under the same kind of
- 12 rubric as the Davis case that I mentioned
- 13 earlier.
- 14 JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay. A church
- organist who provides musical accompaniment and
- selects hymns for services?
- 17 MR. RASSBACH: I think that that
- 18 usually would fall within it because that's an
- 19 important religious function and that's the main
- 20 job.
- JUSTICE KAGAN: Okay. A cook who's
- 22 actually not Jewish but who prepares
- 23 kosher-compliant meals for children at a Jewish
- 24 school?
- MR. RASSBACH: No.

1 JUSTICE KAGAN: No, okay. What's the 2
      -- you -- you got through them all. Thank you.
      What's the connection? What -- what are we supposed to draw from this?
 4
                MR. RASSBACH: Well, I -- again, I think it's -- I think we laid it out in our -- in our briefing, and that is, what is -- what is
8 it that this person is doing, performing on behalf of the religious body? So what is the -- 10 what is the function that they're performing on behalf of that body? It's not all religious
12 exercise. It's a subset of the different kinds 13 of religious exercise that are out there.
14
                It is -- and it is the kinds of things 15 that were listed in the Alito concurrence. It was listed as the sort of verbs that we teased
17 out in the main opinion in Hosanna-Tabor, which 18 is preaching, teaching, guiding, communicating, 19 things like that that -- that are -- that are 20 crucial to what you do as a religious 21 organization. So I -- I think -- 22
                CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
2.3
      Gorsuch?
24 JUSTICE GORSUCH: Counsel, I'd like to 25 follow up on -- on Justice Kagan's line of
```

- 1 questioning. In response to a number of them,
- 2 you indicated that you thought that the
- 3 religious activities were de minimis and
- 4 therefore wouldn't qualify.
- 5 You're asking a secular court to make
- 6 that judgment. And even when some deference is
- 7 given to a religious organization in a qualified
- 8 immunity sort of way or otherwise, you're still
- 9 asking us to make a judgment between who
- 10 qualifies as a minister and who does not on the
- 11 basis of our judgment that their activity with
- 12 respect to a religion is de minimis.
- 13 And I -- I'm just wondering, does that
- 14 pose some problems for you and for your clients
- in some of these cases? I -- I can easily see a
- school in which everybody takes a pledge that
- everything they're going to do is to help teach
- 18 these kids to be part of the faith, and -- and
- 19 churches believe, unlike some, that -- that
- 20 every -- every member is a minister and not just
- 21 a -- not just limited to clergy.
- So what do we do about that? The next
- case is going to be a school in which a janitor
- 24 takes a pledge, or the school bus driver or the
- coach, and they all believe sincerely that they are ministers, and you're going to have us tell 2 them, no, your active duties are too de minimis?

                MR. RASSBACH: Well, I mean, I think this is part of -- part of the issue with -- 4 with the use of the word "minister." This is a kind of immunity that really goes to the kind -- 7 kinds of things that are done, that are the 8 kinds of things you would never contemplate
 6
      having a governmental entity do.
10
                And so, therefore, you know, it's true 11 that they may well be within their faith 12 tradition a minister, but the term "minister," 1.3
      as was, you know, explained in -- in the 14 colloguy -- one of the colloquies that Justice 15 Scalia had in Hosanna-Tabor, is that it -- that it's -- it's a legal term here.
16
                                       It's a -- and 17 it was -- it arose in the 1985 Rayburn case.
18
                So I think that there's a -- there's a 19 real -- there's -- you have to see it as a 20 subset of the kinds of things that are done on 21 behalf of the religious community that make it 22 distinctive. So it's not going to cover the gas 23 station attendant or the -- the bus driver. It 24 has to -- it has to go to those functions that 25 make religious -- religious communities
```

- 1 distinctive within our society.
- 2 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 3 Kavanaugh?
- 4 JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Thank you, Chief
- 5 Justice.
- Good morning, Mr. Rassbach. Do you
- 7 think the exception applies to teachers who
- 8 teach religious doctrine or teachers perhaps
- 9 more broadly who teach religious values? How
- 10 would you answer that question? Which of the
- 11 two are you looking at?
- MR. RASSBACH: Yes, so I -- I think if
- 13 -- if they're -- if -- if a -- if a teacher is
- 14 teaching religion devotionally, doctrine,
- 15 values, what -- what have you, or just religious
- 16 practices, then that teacher's going to come
- 17 within the exception.
- And one way to think about it is this
- 19 is an Establishment Clause-rooted doctrine. So
- 20 there's a -- there's a sort of heuristic here
- 21 where, if it's something that you would start to
- feel nervous about having in a public school,
- done by public school teachers, then how can you
- 24 turn around and reach into the religious --
- 25 private religious school and have the government

1 tell them how to arrange those affairs? 2 So I think that --JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Well, I think a 3 number of the questions so far have gone to the 4 5 limits -- as it often happens, the limits if you 6 were to win this case, and so we're thinking about where it would go. 7 8 And so say the English teacher who 9 sprinkles in references to Matthew 25 and feed 10 the hungry or the art teacher who talks -- talks about art in the Vatican or the football coach 11 12 who says the Memorare before every practice and 1.3 game, the basketball coach who says Our Lady of 14 Victory, pray for us, those kinds of things are 15 definitely instilling religious values. Are those people therefore covered or 16 17 not covered? 18 MR. RASSBACH: I -- I -- I think that 19 -- that in -- in most cases, it's the -- they --20 they probably would -- if it's only that, if 21 it's just doing the one thing, the sort of 22 saying grace before meal situation, that -- that 23 could be -- that that probably would fall 24 outside the exception because it's not the --25 it's not at the -- the heart of what they're

- doing. But I don't think that there's actually
- 2 a whole lot of situations where that is -- is
- 3 actually the only thing that such coaches or
- 4 teachers or other --
- 5 JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: I'm -- I'm
- 6 not sure about that factually, and I guess the
- 7 question that Justice Thomas and Justice Gorsuch
- 8 asked is, are we going to have litigation over
- 9 what particular students take out of particular
- 10 coaches or particular teachers? I'm not sure
- 11 how we do that if you were to win this case and
- 12 then we go on to the next case.
- 13 MR. RASSBACH: I -- I think that the
- 14 -- I think that your limiting principle is
- looking at, you know, what was laid out in
- 16 Hosanna-Tabor. It's not just -- you know, the
- important religious functions are not just any
- 18 religious exercise, but they're sort of a subset
- of religious functions that the person's
- 20 performing as the agent of the religious
- 21 community and that that's, you know, the main
- 22 part of their job.
- So it can't be something where it's --
- 24 it's just, you know, something that you -- you
- 25 know, you have the -- the physics teacher that

- 1 has a crucifix on the wall. That's one thing.
- 2 If you have the physics teacher who adds a
- 3 sermonette to every single class, that's a
- 4 different one. And that is --
- 5 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
- 6 counsel.
- 7 Ms. Ratner? Ms. Ratner?
- 8 ORAL ARGUMENT OF MORGAN L. RATNER
- 9 FOR THE UNITED STATES, AS AMICUS CURIAE,
- 10 SUPPORTING THE PETITIONERS
- 11 MS. RATNER: Thank you, Mr. Chief
- 12 Justice, and may it please the Court:
- There are three proposed approaches to
- the ministerial exception on the table. First,
- in most lower courts, an employee's function has
- 16 been central to the analysis.
- 17 Second, in the Ninth Circuit, an
- 18 employer must check off one or more formalities
- 19 even if an employee's religious function is
- 20 clear.
- 21 And, third, in Respondents' view, this
- 22 Court should go even further and make formality
- 23 the key, with function serving just as a
- 24 cross-check.
- The first approach is the right one.

- 1 The touchstone of the ministerial exception
- 2 should be whether an employee performs important
- 3 religious functions. That's because function
- 4 reflects the First Amendment interest at stake
- 5 and because, critically, it's more neutral among
- 6 different religions.
- Here, we're talking about teachers of
- 8 religious doctrine at a religious school. Under
- 9 Hosanna-Tabor, those teachers are ministering to
- 10 their students by teaching them how and why to
- 11 be Catholic. So they should fall within the
- 12 ministerial exception regardless of what the
- 13 school calls them.
- 14 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Counsel,
- 15 Hosanna-Tabor looked at all of the factors in
- 16 the case, and the issue now seems to be what
- emphasis you should put on one of those factors,
- 18 religious function, and what emphasis on a
- 19 different one, the ministerial title.
- I guess, in addressing that question,
- 21 I'd like to repeat Justice Gorsuch's question to
- you as a representative of the government. How
- is -- is a court supposed to determine what is a
- 24 significant religious function and what is an
- 25 insignificant one?

1 MS. RATNER: Well, Mr. Chief Justice, 2 with respect to the first part of your question, we do think the Court left open in Hosanna-Tabor 3 what is the appropriate methodology here. It 4 5 said that expressly and repeatedly. 6 And we think the reason why the 7 function is the best approach is, as I 8 mentioned, it -- it advances the purposes 9 identified in Hosanna-Tabor. The -- the way 10 that one would determine whether this is an important religious function is first by looking 11 12 to the categories set out in Hosanna-Tabor and particularly if the Court were to pick up the 1.3 additional elaboration in Justice Alito's 14 15 concurrence. Then we're talking about things like preaching, teaching, worship, leadership, 16 and rituals. 17 18 You have a pretty defined set that we think would cover the mine run of cases in this 19 20 area. So it's not going to be an exceptionally 21 indeterminate analysis. Just to underscore 22 that, this is a concept that has been around in 2.3 the lower courts since the 1980s. And so, 24 again, it's not something that we're invented --25 inventing here or that these courts are going to

- 1 significantly struggle with.
- 2 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
- 3 counsel.
- 4 Justice Thomas?
- 5 JUSTICE THOMAS: Yes. Counsel, my
- 6 question is similar to that. I am perplexed as
- 7 to what you do, for example, with the chemistry
- 8 teacher who starts class with the Hail Mary or
- 9 the theology teacher -- or the chemistry teacher
- 10 who's a nun who starts class with -- chemistry
- 11 class with the Hail Mary, or the lay teacher who
- 12 teaches religion but does it in a very
- 13 straightforward, objective way.
- 14 How would you handle those? I -- I
- don't see how -- what standards a secular court
- 16 would use to determine which of those is a
- function, an important duty or function,
- 18 religious duty or function.
- 19 MS. RATNER: Sure, Justice Thomas. So
- 20 we think that the important religious functions
- are those of the type that I mentioned before,
- 22 and then the question in some of these cases
- 23 that have been hypothesized is just, is that
- really a meaningful part of a person's job or,
- as Petitioner's counsel called it, is that just 1 a de minimis part of a person's job? 2 If that job is in one of your 3 hypotheticals teaching religion, then, of course, the answer is yes. If that job is 4 5 teaching something secularly and we're talking 6 about one prayer, then the -- the answer may not 7 be yes. 8 But, if -- if I could give the Court some comfort on this, there really has been 9 10 three main buckets of recurring claims since Hosanna-Tabor, and that's been principals and 11 12 teachers of religious schools, worship 13 musicians, and leaders of religious 14 congregations. Those are the ministerial 15 exception claims that we see again and again. And we think all of those would be 16 resolved or at least this Court would set a 17 18 clear path forward if it were to adopt a 19 function-focused approach. 20 JUSTICE THOMAS: Thank you. 21 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice 22 Ginsburg? 2.3 JUSTICE GINSBURG: The breadth of the 24 exemption is staggering; that is, these people are exempt from all anti-discrimination laws.

1 So, to take a stark example, suppose a teacher 2 who does everything the two teachers in -- in 3 these cases do, as a faith leader, also reports a student's complaint of sexual harassment by a 4 5 priest and is terminated. She has no remedy? 6 MS. RATNER: Justice Ginsburg, I think 7 that question goes to the "what is covered by 8 the ministerial exception" as opposed to the "who falls within it." And on the "what is 9 10 covered," we're simply asking for the same thing that this Court decided in Hosanna-Tabor. 11 12 And the Court there specifically 1.3 didn't decide whether things like retaliation 14 for sexual abuse reporting would be covered. 15 What it did decide was that employment discrimination claims that involve the hiring or 16 17 firing of an employee necessarily go to a 18 religious organization's ability to control who 19 ministers to the faithful and that those claims 20 are categorically precluded. 21 So we would apply the same rule here. 22 And then the question is just what's the 2.3 appropriate methodology for determining that a 24 person is one who ministers to the faithful. 25 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Then her having

- 1 cancer has nothing to do with the performance of
- 2 her religious functions. She needs time off and
- 3 the government says she should have time off to
- 4 take care of her disease.
- 5 MS. RATNER: Yes, Justice --
- 6 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Yes?
- 7 MS. RATNER: So, yes, Justice
- 8 Ginsburg, that is the assertion, but, again,
- 9 this Court said in Hosanna-Tabor that requiring
- 10 a particular religious reason misses the point
- of the exemption and that it really is
- 12 categorical once we're in the category of
- 13 employment discrimination claims relating to
- 14 hiring and firing.
- 15 JUSTICE GINSBURG: So, if it's
- 16 categorical, why then doesn't it take care of
- 17 the teacher who reports a student's claim of
- abuse by a priest?
- MS. RATNER: So, again, I think that
- there may well be arguments that that type of
- 21 retaliation claim would also have to be covered.
- 22 My point is merely that the Court avoided
- 23 deciding that in Hosanna-Tabor, and we think
- 24 that it could continue to do so here.
- 25 JUSTICE GINSBURG: And it would be the

- 1 same if what was reported that the principal of
- 2 the school, Sister Mary Margaret, had been
- 3 stealing from the school, from the school's till
- 4 regularly, to pay for her gambling excursions to
- 5 Las Vegas. The teacher reports that, and she's
- 6 terminated.
- 7 MS. RATNER: So, Justice Ginsburg,
- 8 again, all of this relates to what is the
- 9 potential scope, what are the types of claims,
- 10 and, in particular, retaliation claims, for
- 11 which the -- to which the ministerial exception
- 12 would apply.
- I think there are logical reasons why
- maybe some of those claims could come in, but we
- 15 think the better approach -- excuse me, why
- maybe some of those claims would be covered by
- 17 the ministerial exception, but we think the
- better approach is to continue to do what this
- 19 Court did in Hosanna-Tabor and say we don't need
- 20 to decide those sort of outlier cases right now,
- 21 we're deciding things that relate to the
- 22 employee/employer relationship and a
- 23 hiring/firing claim under the employment --
- 24 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you.
- 25 Thank you, counsel.

1	Justice Breyer?
2	JUSTICE BREYER: Counsel, I'd I'd
3	like to ask you about the your categorical
4	line thought. As I understand it, this is 5	the kinds of claims that are brought are not 6	about religion.
7	There is a BFOQ and there is the 8	religious exemption and taken together, where 9	the organization does something related to 10	religion, and that's why they dismissed the 11	person, they're likely to win if the case is 12	brought in the first place.
13	We're talking about the kinds of 14	things anyway that Justice Ginsburg raised.
15	That's the kind of thing. Should there be an 16	immunity there? And I think the Court has 17	previously decided yes, there should be when the 18	person is a minister because, in that situation, 19	don't even get into it, Court, don't even get 20	into it.
21	So who falls within the minister? Now
22	I can say easily a person of leadership or 23	authority. That's not going to help that much.
24	So, when you take your categorical approach,
25	minister, person of leadership, person of

1 authority, what do you want to add? 2 How do we explain to people in your view what that should amount to? 3 MS. RATNER: Well, Your Honor, I 4 5 think, at a minimum, you need to add the other 6 categories that you discussed in Hosanna-Tabor. And it -- you specifically said this doesn't 7 8 just apply to leaders of the congregation, it 9 applies to other employees who preach their beliefs, teach their faith, and carry out their 10 mission. 11 12 So we think that, at -- at a minimum, 13 those teaching the faith during the week to 14 schoolchildren and not just those preaching the 15 faith on the weekend to adults are included 16 within that category. And then, when we're talking about 17 18 what it means to carry out the religion's 19 mission, then we -- we think that there are other categories, some helpfully laid out by 20 21 Justice Alito's concurrence, like worship, 22 leadership, and rituals that would also come in. 2.3 JUSTICE BREYER: Why? Why if it's a 24 plain teacher and teaches religion too, why is 25 it necessary to keep out of it entirely, even if

1 that teacher or whoever administrator is does 2 discriminate on the basis of handicap? MS. RATNER: Because, once you've made 3 the decision that somebody is performing an 4 5 important religious function, then this Court 6 said in Hosanna-Tabor that getting into why they were dismissed misses the point because, at that 7 8 point, the religious organization has to be 9 capable of deciding who is going to minister to 10 the faithful, who is going to fulfill that role of teaching Catholic schoolchildren that Jesus 11 12 is the son of God and God created the world and 1.3 this is the appropriate way to be Catholic. 14 JUSTICE BREYER: Thank you. 15 MS. RATNER: And --CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice Alito? 16 17 JUSTICE ALITO: What do you think is the relevance of titles in this inquiry? 18 19 MS. RATNER: So, Justice Alito, we 20 think that, of course, all the considerations 21 that this Court mentioned in Hosanna-Tabor, 22 including title, may be relevant. But the best 23 way to think about them is that they may be 24 relevant in illustrating whether someone 25 performs an important religious function.

1 And I think, to do the opposite, to 2 require a title as sort of a separate check box that needs to be ticked off, is going to create 3 a real problem in terms of neutrality among 4 5 religions. 6 Some faiths have those sorts of 7 formalities. Some faiths don't. I think a 8 particularly salient example is that the Lutheran Church in Hosanna-Tabor had available 9 10 to it things like called teachers and commissioned ministers, and those types of 11 12 non-ordained ministerial-sounding titles just 1.3 aren't used by a lot of faiths, in particular, 14 Catholicism, Judaism, and others. 15 And so that's why we think the title -- and to the title, the existence of it, can be 16 used to help understand someone's religious role 17 18 but not as a freestanding inquiry. 19 JUSTICE ALITO: Well, how does it even 20 help to understand the person's role? Suppose 21 you have two people who do exactly the same 22 thing in two different religiously affiliated 23 schools, but one has a title and the other one doesn't have a title other than the title of 24 25 teacher.

1	Why should the presence or absence of
2	this title make any difference?
3	MS. RATNER: So it shouldn't in the 4	circumstance where we know clearly what
5	individuals are doing. If it's a little harder
6	to understand based on the facts whether someone
7	does, in fact, play an important religious 8	function and if the religion that we know gives 9	out titles for different types of religious
LO	functions, then perhaps it could shed some light
L1	on the question. But but, no, in a
L2	circumstance like we have here where a teacher
L3	performs the exact same function that Ms. Perich
L 4	did in Hosanna-Tabor, then we don't think the L5	absence of a title should make any difference.
L 6	JUSTICE ALITO: Thank you.
L7	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
L8	counsel.
L9	Justice Sotomayor?
20	JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Counsel, in your
21	brief, you're encouraging us not just to define
22	who's a minister by important religious 23	function, but you're asking us to defer to the 24	religious organization's determination of what's
25	an important religious function.

1 That's a recipe for saying the teacher 2 who says a prayer at the beginning of a class, 3 every teacher, whether it's a math teacher, a computer teacher, a gym teacher, they're doing 4 5 an important religious function because all the 6 -- all the school has to say is that's important to us, number one. 7 8 Number two, I thought what Hosanna, 9 our prior case, was recognizing is that when 10 you're talking about a leader, a -- a person who stewards a religion, that they are entitled to 11 12 this absolution. You are now -- absolution from 13 liability and law. 14 You are now suggesting that we as 15 judges have an obligation to expand the exemption that we've created in law. I thought 16 17 that was always Congress who would do that, not 18 us, and as Justice Breyer indicated, they've 19 already done it. You're asking us to -- to 20 broaden that to anyone who does -- whose job is 21 not primarily religious in any way. 22 And for decades, the lower courts, 23 most of them, have not used any of the tests all 24 of you are proposing. They've used the 25 primarily religious -- not -- not important but

- 1 primarily religious functions.
- 2 And I don't think that lay teachers
- 3 who are hired as lay teachers, not as religious
- 4 teachers, it's hard to see how they qualify as
- 5 primarily religious leaders.
- 6 MS. RATNER: So, Justice Sotomayor, on
- 7 your first question, I want to be very clear.
- 8 When we're talking about deferring to religious
- 9 organizations, we think that this Court has
- 10 already outlined sort of objectively what would
- 11 be considered this class of important religious
- 12 functions, and the deference we're talking about
- are in those rare cases where there's some
- dispute about whether someone actually performs
- 15 those. There's a case where there was a
- 16 question whether an organist is important to
- worship, whether a Hebrew teacher at a Jewish
- school is important to teaching the Jewish
- 19 faith, things of that nature.
- On your second question, we agree that
- 21 the ministerial exception applies to those who
- lead and steward the religion and perform other
- 23 functions involving stewardship and
- 24 personification of the faith. And that's
- 25 exactly what teachers do. It's -- the question

1 is really just of methodology. Is this based on 2 what you do or on what you are called? 3 And it more --4 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice Kagan? 5 JUSTICE KAGAN: Ms. Ratner, I was 6 struck by the emphasis that your brief gave to the idea that it was not important whether an 7 8 individual was a member of a particular faith. 9 As I understood it, that the central 10 premise of the ministerial exception is that there are certain individuals within faith 11 12 communities who have a particularly distinctive 13 special role about how to propagate the faith. 14 And if a position can be filled by any 15 old person, not by a member of a faith, isn't that a pretty good sign that the employee 16 17 doesn't have that special role within the 18 religious community? 19 MS. RATNER: No, Justice Kagan, I 20 don't think so, and -- and there are really 21 several reasons. The -- the most important one 22 is that's essentially a religious judgment about 23 who is qualified to perform certain important 24 religious functions and how much of the creed of 25 that religion you need to share to perform that

- 1 function.
- 2 The second is that this is a really
- 3 entangling inquiry to engage in in practice.
- 4 And the third is that the result is
- 5 going to have a disproportionate effect on
- 6 minority religions.
- 7 And I don't -- I want to be clear here
- 8 that these are not just abstract questions. One
- 9 of the schools in this case, for example, said
- 10 that it preferred Catholic teachers, but it
- 11 would make exceptions for certain other
- 12 Protestant religions, like Lutherans. I don't
- 13 know how to -- whether to consider that, you
- 14 know, a partial coreligionist requirement.
- 15 I don't know whether that's different
- from a Reformed Jewish school that would hire an
- 17 Orthodox Jewish teacher. And I don't think that
- that's a road that the Court wants to go down
- 19 on -- to go down, particularly if it has
- 20 concerns about other potentially entangling
- 21 parts of this analysis.
- 22 JUSTICE KAGAN: In -- in some of your
- answers, you've talked a lot about the language
- in Hosanna-Tabor, which is, you know, leading,
- 25 preaching, teaching, and -- but, of course,

- 1 Hosanna-Tabor connected that up with the title,
- with the training, with the formal
- 3 commissioning.
- 4 And when you take all of those things
- 5 away and you're just left with those terms,
- 6 "preaching" and "teaching," that's when you get
- 7 into all the tricky questions like, how much
- 8 preaching? How much teaching? Of what kind?
- 9 Any -- any prayer that you say during the day?
- 10 Any amount of teaching?
- 11 And -- and so how would we deal with
- 12 that?
- MS. RATNER: Again, I think the way to - deal with that is by understanding there to be a
- 15 baseline here that the religious functions of
- 16 the type discussed in Hosanna-Tabor have to be a
- meaningful part of somebody's job duties. And
- so a lot of these kind of outlier hypotheticals
- 19 that are suggested are not the circumstances
- 20 where this even has arisen. The --
- 21 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
- 22 counsel.
- Justice Gorsuch?
- JUSTICE GORSUCH: Counsel, elsewhere
- in the First Amendment and under RFRA, we have

1 emphasized repeatedly that we do not inquire 2 into how important the -- the plaintiff's religious belief is or how central it is to 3 their faith. We protect any sincerely held 4 5 religious belief precisely because we're afraid 6 about entangling courts in making religious 7 judgments and discriminating against minority 8 religions that may have views about what's 9 important that are unusual or different from our 10 own. Here, however, it seems to me, instead 11 12 of pursuing that line of argument and suggesting that the sincerely held religious belief about 1.3 14 who is a minister should control, you're asking 15 this Court to involve itself in deciding for itself who is and who is not an important 16 minister or just a de minimis, I think is the 17 18 words you've -- you've used, person in -- in the 19 teaching of religion. 20 Doesn't that create just exactly the 21 sort of entanglement problems that we've tried 22 to avoid elsewhere and discriminate potentially 23 against minority religions that may have different views of ministers than -- than you or 24 25 I may have?

1 And you -- you -- you reject all these hypotheticals as speculative or haven't yet 2 arisen, but the very test you propose would seem 3 to me to invite them. 4 5 MS. RATNER: So, Justice Gorsuch, a 6 couple points. I think the first, the reason we have not advocated for a completely deferential 7 8 approach is the reason Petitioners' counsel 9 alluded to, and that's that the ministerial 10 exception is really a legal term of art. And so different religions may have different views on 11 12 who constitutes a minister under that particular 1.3 faith, but that's not necessarily going to map 14 on to the sphere that this Court has said has to 15 be left to religious organizations. So we don't think that there's any way 16 to entirely extricate yourself from this 17 18 problem. And so then the question just becomes, 19 what is the methodology? And if the worry is 20 discriminating among religions and 21 disadvantaging minority religions, then that's a significantly greater worry if we're talking 22 23 about things like title and training than if 24 we're using generalized functional -- a 25 generalized functional approach that looks to the types of things that religions usually

                JUSTICE GORSUCH: Oh, well -- MS. RATNER: -- board.
 4 JUSTICE GORSUCH: -- there -- there

      exactly is the problem, "usually." "Usually."
      And that -- that discriminates in favor of

      majority conceptions about religious doctrine and teaching.

                Why couldn't we just simply say that a sincerely held religious belief about who is a
12 minister should control, just like we do everywhere else in the First Amendment and in
      RFRA?
15
                MS. RATNER: Again, Your Honor, everywhere else we're talking about sincerely
17 held beliefs for purposes of, say, a free 18 exercise claim or a RFRA claim. Here, we're 19 talking about a -- a constitutional protection 20 that this Court has said is limited to those who 21 are ministering to the faithful or who personify 22 the church, and we don't think that's 23 necessarily going to map on to the particular 24 definition of a minister that one organization 25 may use.

2	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
3	Kavanaugh?
4	JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Thank you, Chief
5	Justice.
6	Good afternoon, Ms. Ratner. Just want
7	to confirm that your view that the roots of this
8	exception are the Constitution and not statute.
9	Professor Laycock refers to principle of 10	religious autonomy rooted in the Free Exercise
11	and Establishment Clause.
12	Is that correct?
13	MS. RATNER: I think that's correct.
14	I don't see how you could read the Court's 15	decision in Hosanna-Tabor to adopt some sort of 16	statutory constitutional avoidance analysis in 17	the same vein as Catholic Bishop. I think it's 18	pretty clearly a a First Amendment holding in 19	that case. So that's what
20	JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Okay.
21	MS. RATNER: we're
22	JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: You used the
23	phrase "teaching the faith." And, of course, 24	looking ahead, if you your side were to 25	nrevail in this case to to future cases

- 1 what does "teaching the faith" mean, a similar
- 2 question that I asked your colleague about
- 3 instilling religious values, not just teaching
- 4 specific doctrine.
- 5 You know, a school could have a creed
- 6 of instilling the value of being a person for
- 7 others in all its students, and all the teachers
- 8 and coaches are told to underscore that message
- 9 in how they go about instructing or coaching the
- 10 students. That's the religious value, and
- 11 they're all told to -- to pursue that in
- 12 different ways.
- How do we analyze a case like that?
- MS. RATNER: So I think that those
- cases are obviously going to be more difficult.
- 16 It's a heartland case when you're talking about
- 17 the formal teaching of religious doctrine on a
- daily or near daily basis, as we have here and
- 19 as the Court had in Hosanna-Tabor.
- 20 If we're talking about something that
- 21 looks more like modeling the faith, I think
- you're going to have to do a more
- 23 context-specific analysis about whether, in
- 24 practice, this particular position is expected
- 25 to transmit the faith through that way.

1 I certainly wouldn't say that 2 categorically those individuals are -- are either out or in. It will depend on what that 3 4 means in practice. 5 I just want to underscore here that 6 the Ninth Circuit's decision is really the outlier decision. So, with respect to all of 7 8 these concerns about the repercussions, we're 9 just asking you to eliminate the decision that 10 has deviated from the general focus in the lower courts on a function-based approach. 11 12 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, counsel. 1.3 14 Mr. Rassbach, you have two minutes for rebuttal. 15 MR. RASSBACH: Your Honor --16 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: You don't have 17 18 anything to rebut just yet. 19 MR. RASSBACH: Yes, sorry. CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Mr. Fisher? 20 21 ORAL ARGUMENT OF JEFFREY L. FISHER 22 ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS 2.3 MR. FISHER: Thank you. Thank you, 24 Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the Court: 25 I think the first half of the argument

- 1 has illustrated the myriad problems with the
- 2 important religious function test that's been
- 3 proposed on the other side, both in terms of
- 4 consequences. For example, Mr. Rassbach readily
- 5 admitted that -- you know, that all nurses in
- 6 Catholic hospitals, for example, would be
- 7 covered, and in terms of theory, as Justice
- 8 Gorsuch's questions illustrated.
- 9 So I think I want to focus on a
- 10 narrower argument in this case that I hear the
- schools and the government making, which is that
- these particular teachers should be considered
- ministers, even though they did not have to be
- 14 Catholic to have their job, simply because their
- 15 job included teaching religion.
- And our position is the Court should
- 17 reject this contention for three reasons.
- 18 First, the school's argument would strip more
- than 300,000 lay teachers in religious schools
- 20 across the country of basic employment law
- 21 protections, and necessarily included in this
- 22 number are teachers who teach so-called secular
- 23 classes.
- 24 This has been a focus of a lot of
- 25 questioning this morning, so I want to emphasize

- 1 this. The Court itself in Catholic Bishop in
- 2 many cases has said in no uncertain terms that
- 3 there's no way to distinguish a teacher who
- 4 teaches religion in a religious school from a
- 5 teacher who teaches general curriculum or a
- 6 secular course infused with religion.
- 7 And, in fact, the schools in amici
- 8 from the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops to
- 9 the American Jewish Committee in their amicus
- 10 briefs are at absolute pains to underscore this
- 11 reality. They emphasize that, "All teachers in
- 12 religious schools infuse their instruction with
- 13 religious doctrine" regardless of whether of
- they teach "religious or secular subjects, such
- 15 as math and science."
- 16 And the concrete examples the Court
- 17 has offered already I think make this readily
- 18 apparent, but let me give you a couple more.
- 19 Imagine the English teacher who teaches rhetoric
- 20 using the Sermon on the Mount or the history
- 21 teacher who during Passover describes the exodus
- from Egypt or who explores divine will through
- 23 Lincoln's second inaugural address or the
- 24 science teacher who teaches creationism or
- 25 intelligent design.

1	I don't really understand what the 2	other side means when they talk about de minimis 3	teaching of religion or outlier, I think was the 4	word Ms. Ratner used. All teachers in religious 5	schools are in play in this case necessarily.
6	Secondly
7	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Mr. Fisher, I
8	I think it's fair to describe your position
9	compared to your friend's on the other side as 10	more formalistic in using that word in a
11	non-pejorative sense. You're you're much
12	more focused on titles, I would think, than 13	whether or not they're performing religious
14	functions.
15	And my concern is it was one raised
16	by the concurring opinion in Hosanna-Tabor, is 17	that different faiths put different stock in 18	in titles. In some that are more hierarchal,
19	they're important. In others, they're not.
20	And the second concern is that that's 21	pretty manipulable. You know, if you want broad 22	protection, you just start handing out titles to 23	everybody, and then they would be covered.
24	I'd like your reaction to that.
25	MR. FISHER: Thank you, Mr. Chief

- 1 Justice. Just so that our position is to be
- 2 absolutely clear is the Court should adhere to
- 3 the multi-factor framework that Hosanna-Tabor
- 4 laid out, which starts with what we would call
- 5 objective factors.
- 6 Yes, one of those factors is the
- 7 formal title of the individual but also things
- 8 like the individual's training, whether the
- 9 individual has to be of the same religion, et
- 10 cetera, we think are good places for courts to
- 11 start because, as the Court has mentioned, the
- 12 entanglement problems here are extraordinary
- once a court turns to assessing religious
- 14 doctrine and what is important and what -- how
- 15 religious values come into play.
- So, Mr. Chief Justice, you asked also
- about manipulation. I think you've actually had
- 18 a little bit of a case study in the last eight
- 19 years since Hosanna-Tabor was announced, and
- 20 what you see in the guides that we cite at pages
- 21 35 to 37 of our brief is religious employers
- looking to claim broad protection of the
- 23 ministerial exception are being told to put
- things into their handbooks about the importance
- of the religious functions of the employees and

- 1 to assign them daily prayer activities and the
- 2 like.
- 3 They're not being given special titles
- 4 and the like, and we think the reason why is
- 5 that titles themselves, even on their own terms,
- 6 are meaningful things. You can look across all
- 7 sectors of American society, including churches,
- 8 to see that.
- 9 But, again, Mr. Chief Justice, we
- 10 wouldn't rely solely on titles. We would just
- 11 say it's an important thing to start with
- 12 titles, just like the Court did in
- 13 Hosanna-Tabor.
- 14 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 15 Thomas?
- JUSTICE THOMAS: Yes. Thank you,
- 17 Chief Justice.
- 18 Mr. Fisher, just first a just general
- 19 question. Would exactly what these teachers
- 20 were doing be a violation if they did it in a
- 21 public school, be a violation of the
- 22 Establishment Clause if they did it in a public
- 23 school?
- MR. FISHER: Well, Justice Thomas, I
- 25 think there's a yes-and-no answer to that. I

- 1 think some of the religious teaching might step
- 2 over the line, but, of course, it's commonplace
- 3 for religion to be taught in public schools.
- 4 And let me -- let me clarify one thing
- 5 that came up in the first half of the argument
- 6 with Mr. Rassbach, for example, about teaching
- 7 devotionally in a religious school. The
- 8 document Lay Catholic -- Lay Teachers in
- 9 Catholic Schools, which is cited in the other
- side's amicus briefs as kind of the touch point
- for what it means to teach Catholicism as a lay
- 12 person, tells Catholic teachers that when
- they're -- even when they're in public schools,
- they should teach devotionally.
- So it's not simply the idea that a
- 16 Catholic person is supposed to be a witness of
- the faith or even try to persuade other people
- 18 to become Catholic. That would be somehow
- 19 different in a religious school --
- JUSTICE THOMAS: Well, let's -- I
- 21 don't want to cut you off, Mr. Fisher, but what
- 22 if they -- it's my understanding they actually
- led them from time to time in prayer or took
- 24 them to service, things like that.
- 25 That's what I mean. Just let's take

- 1 not the sort of the minimal performance of their
- 2 duty but sort of their standard week-to-week
- 3 performance, what could they do at the local
- 4 public school?
- 5 MR. FISHER: I think, Justice Thomas,
- 6 the answer to that is -- is no, the prayer and
- 7 worship would step over the line. But I don't
- 8 think that tells you anything meaningful for in
- 9 terms of what a minister is, because if prayer
- and worship were enough, then you'd have not
- just the football coach or the administrator who
- 12 gives the morning prayer over the loudspeaker in
- school, but you'd have the nurses in Catholic
- 14 hospitals, you'd have the teenagers at summer
- 15 camps who are camp counselors who lead their
- 16 campers in a prayer every night.
- So prayer is one thing to look at,
- but, Justice Thomas, we don't think it's enough
- 19 to make somebody a minister.
- JUSTICE THOMAS: But don't you think
- 21 it's a bit odd that -- that things that would
- violate the Establishment Clause, when done in a
- 23 public school, are not considered religious
- 24 enough for free exercise protection when done in
- a parochial school?

1 MR. FISHER: Well, Justice Thomas, I 2 wholeheartedly agree that free exercise protection is available in this case. And I 3 want to make clear that any religious reason for 4 firing these teachers or for otherwise 5 6 regulating the teachers would be entitled to the 7 highest free exercise protection. 8 But what the other side needs to prove is that there's an Establishment Clause 9 10 violation in this case with -- going forward. And we think that is something that requires 11 12 more than simply leading people in prayer or the 1.3 like. It requires being a leader in the church. 14 It requires not just being a member but a -- a 15 person in who the stewardship of the congregation has been placed. 16 And that's what raises the kind of 17 Establishment Clause problem we think the 18 19 ministerial exception is concerned with. 20 JUSTICE THOMAS: So the -- you -- you 21 rely somewhat on the, as the Chief Justice said 22 in a non-pejorative way, ministerial 23 designation. How would you determine that, 24 especially when we look at these non-hierarchal 25 religions that do not use priesthood or pastor

- 1 and that sort of a -- a designation?
- 2 MR. FISHER: Well, I think, Justice
- 3 Thomas, the best way to do that in a -- in a
- 4 religion that didn't use the kind of titles that
- 5 the Catholic Church and the Lutheran Church use
- 6 would be to do what Judge Wilkinson did in the
- Rayburn case, which is to say that if the person
- 8 is performing all of the same things as -- as --
- 9 as -- as what would typically come with a title,
- 10 then that may well be quite relevant.
- 11 And I hasten to add, I just don't want
- 12 to give the appearance that our test relies
- 13 simply on title. The very next thing
- 14 Hosanna-Tabor looked at was the training
- 15 reflected in that title.
- And so -- and so, even in a religion
- 17 that isn't hierarchal, you're -- you're most
- 18 likely going to have significant religious
- 19 training of the kind Ms. Perich had in the
- 20 Hosanna-Tabor case in play when you deal with a
- 21 religious leader or the head of a congregation
- 22 or the like. And so even --
- 23 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
- 24 counsel.
- Justice Ginsburg?

1 JUSTICE GINSBURG: I have the same 2 question you were answering about discriminating against some hierarchical religions. And you're 3 saying even those people may have special 4 5 training that distinguishes them from the lay 6 members of the congregation? MR. FISHER: I think that will be true 7 8 quite often, Justice Ginsburg. As I said, I 9 think the Rayburn case is a very good example in 10 that respect, which is, of course, the foundational case for the concept of the 11 12 ministerial exception. 1.3 One other thing I'd like to add, which 14 is I think it is correct, and we agree with the 15 premise, that different religions ought to be treated equally. But there's nothing, I don't 16 17 think, that should require the Court therefore 18 to have all people who perform exactly the same 19 functions across all religions be treated the 20 same. 21 And if I could offer a rough analogy. 22 Think about the Eleventh Amendment immunity that 23 applies to states. Different states structure 24 their own government differently. They have 25 different forms of administrative bodies. Some

- 1 have much bigger administrative bodies than
- 2 others. And so different people in different
- 3 states that perform roughly the same thing are
- 4 sometimes going to get Eleventh -- are sometimes
- 5 going to trigger Eleventh Amendment immunity and
- 6 sometimes they're not.
- 7 We wouldn't say, therefore, that we're
- 8 treating those states unequally. We would say
- 9 we're respecting the decisions, those choices --
- 10 those schools -- I'm sorry, those states have
- 11 made.
- 12 And so too here, I think part of
- 13 respecting religion and staying out of religion
- is respecting the ex ante decisions that
- 15 churches themselves make about how to structure
- 16 their hierarchies and who to give -- who -- who,
- as the words of Hosanna-Tabor put it, "in whom
- 18 to put their faith."
- 19 JUSTICE GINSBURG: You don't seem to
- 20 make much out of what I find very disturbing in
- 21 all this, that the person can be fired or
- refused to be hired for a reason that has
- 23 absolutely nothing to do with religion, like
- 24 needing to take care of chemotherapy.
- 25 MR. FISHER: Justice Ginsburg, I don't

- 1 want to give that impression at all. We think
- 2 that's actually the center of the case in terms
- 3 of how this Court should think about it, and
- 4 this also connects up, I think, with Justice
- 5 Breyer's question.
- It's not just that there's a exemption
- 7 in the statute for hiring people of the same
- 8 faith. It's that anytime a religion -- I'm
- 9 sorry, anytime a religious employer wants to
- 10 hire and fire or take other employment actions
- 11 for religious reasons, the statutes themselves
- 12 let them do that. And if -- and if for some
- 13 reason even then the statute doesn't give them
- 14 what they want, they can raise the Free Exercise
- 15 Clause.
- So the only place the ministerial
- 17 exception really matters is in a case where the
- 18 religion is not acting for religious reasons.
- 19 And so that's this case, I think, Justice
- 20 Ginsburg, as you have said, with Ms. Biel and
- 21 her cancer treatments and with Morrissey-Berru
- being fired simply because, she alleges, she got
- 23 too old, is that those are the cases where the
- 24 ministerial exception matters.
- 25 And maybe this is the way I would say,

1 stripped of all the labels, I think, which can 2 make the case sound more complicated than it is, I think the best way to think about this case is 3 to say when does a church require or, sorry, I 4 5 should say a religious employer require absolute 6 categorical immunity to hire and fire people for 7 whatever reason they want, whether it be race 8 discrimination, whether it be any -- any other 9 thing that doesn't have anything to do with 10 their religion, and when, on the other hand, is 11 it enough, with respect to an employee, to say, 12 of course, you have an important stake in how 1.3 they perform their religious functions and 14 duties, and if you have a problem with that, 15 you're allowed to fire them or discipline them or anything else, but you can't -- you just 16 17 simply can't do it for non-religious reasons? 18 And our submission here, just to --19 just to finish that thought, is we think when it 20 comes to lay teachers, the 300,000 lay teachers 21 in Catholic schools and other religious schools 22 across the country, not to mention the 1- or 23 200,000 more teachers in religious universities 24 and colleges, that we think when you talk about 25 those people, it is enough to serve the

- 1 religions' legitimate interest to say if you
- 2 have a problem with how they're teaching
- 3 religion or how they're otherwise upholding
- 4 themselves in light of your faith, you can hire
- or fire them. But you can't say, we don't care
- 6 when you come in whether you're of our religion
- 7 and we don't care when we fire you about
- 8 anything to do with religion, but we still get
- 9 immunity. We think that's a bridge too far.
- 10 JUSTICE GINSBURG: Thank you.
- 11 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 12 Breyer?
- JUSTICE BREYER: You said, counsel --
- 14 thank you very much. You -- you said that what
- we're looking for is where is it courts should
- 16 really stay out in respect to a religion that we
- 17 will not even look if this defendant committed a
- 18 violation of a statute that has nothing to do
- 19 with religion. Justice Ginsburg went on about
- 20 that.
- 21 All right. That's what the case does
- 22 hold, Tabor. But who are those people? And we
- 23 called them ministers. But they were people in
- 24 positions of leadership or authority. But we
- 25 know some religions, everyone has that kind of

- 1 position. Other religions, no. Some religions
- 2 think people without education are the ones to
- 3 be the ministers. Others might think vast
- 4 education.
- 5 All right. Given that circumstance
- and the desire not to have us meddle too much
- 7 and to keep the religion independent, what
- 8 advice can you give us? What should we write in
- 9 these -- I can -- you know, we can start by
- saying leadership or authority, but what else
- 11 can we write that will -- or what -- what should
- we write to, say, guide the lower courts so they
- don't meddle too much?
- MR. FISHER: Well, Justice Breyer, let
- me answer that in -- first in terms of theory
- and second in terms of the experience in the
- 17 courts for the past several decades.
- In terms of theory, I think you're
- 19 absolutely right to be concerned about
- 20 entanglement, and that's why we say the first
- 21 thing you should write is the same thing you
- 22 wrote at the beginning of Hosanna-Tabor, which
- 23 is that to the extent that ministerial status
- can be gleaned from objective factors, that's
- 25 where courts ought to look. They ought to look

- 1 to the ex ante designations that religions
- 2 themselves make.
- When that -- when that isn't a
- 4 conclusive answer, yes, we can look at
- functions, but we have to be very careful when
- 6 we do, and that ought not drive the analysis.
- 7 The other side's test, I don't think
- 8 that even in the entire first half of the
- 9 argument I ever -- ever heard a meaningful
- 10 definition of what an important religious
- 11 function is. And if that were the sole test, I
- 12 -- I -- I respectfully submit you're going to
- have just impossible entanglement problems.
- Even they concede the janitor, maybe
- 15 the administrator, although that has been argued
- by other religious institutions in the past, but
- they seem to concede it. So there's going to
- have to be a line drawn in the way of what's the
- 19 best path forward.
- 20 And so let me then tell you in terms
- of practical terms what I think is important,
- 22 which is, before Hosanna-Tabor, as the Court and
- 23 the concurrence by Justice Alito stressed, there
- had been several decades of the ministerial
- 25 exception in the lower courts. The position

- we're advocating today is consistent with the
- 2 overwhelming weight of that authority.
- 3 So I can not only give you my theory
- 4 today, but I can lend you the practical
- 5 assurance that for several decades in the lower
- 6 courts -- and this all -- these are all gathered
- 7 in Footnote 1 of our red brief -- the courts
- 8 consistently held that lay teachers in religious
- 9 schools, even if they taught some religion, were
- 10 outside the ministerial exception.
- 11 And so that line was durable and
- workable, and, indeed, the federal government
- 13 brought many of those cases and established that
- 14 rule and had that rule across several
- 15 administrations for many decades.
- 16 So it's a little bit like the Maui
- 17 case, Justice Breyer, where you have hard lines
- 18 to draw, but you can take some comfort with
- decades of experience in lower courts and the
- 20 government's own position that prevailed until
- 21 the moment of this case right now.
- 22 So I think that actually should help
- 23 bolster my position just in practical terms
- because, if you write an opinion that says all
- 25 important religious functions trigger the

- 1 ministerial exception, I don't think there's 2 just any way to escape you're going to have the 3 cases with the nurses, you're going to have the cases with the football coaches, you're going to 4 have the cases with the summer counselors. 5 6 The only thing the other side says to that in our brief is, well, those cases haven't 7 8 been brought so much. But my answer to that is 9 that just shows how revolutionary their case 10 would be, because there's no good answer to those cases, and Mr. Rassbach himself said this 11 12 morning that nurses would be covered. 1.3 We found several cases recently where 14 nurses brought employment discrimination cases 15 that weren't even -- the ministerial exception wasn't even raised in those cases. So now 16 17 you're talking about hundreds of thousands of 18 nurses being stripped of their employment law 19 protections. 20 And this is the last thing I'd say in 21 terms of practical consequences. Remember that 22 we're not just talking about employment
- discrimination laws here. I know Hosanna-Tabor tailored the opinion that way, as Ms. Ratner
- 25 properly said, but the lower courts have said

1 that the ministerial exception applies to the 2 Fair Labor Standards Act, as has the federal 3 government, Equal Pay Act, many other statutes, and also just ordinary state law credentialing. 4 5 Many state -- many states have laws 6 that say teachers have to have a certain amount of education or training or that they have to 7 have certain criminal background checks or -- or 8 9 the like. I don't see how you can uphold the 10 constitutionality of any of those laws or requirements under the other side's test, which 11 12 the theory is that for all lay teachers in Catholic schools or other religious schools who 1.3 are teaching religion, the government can have 14 15 nothing to do with what reasons those people are hired or fired for or what their qualifications 16 17 might be. 18 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice Alito? 19 JUSTICE ALITO: This issue can come up 20 in many, many, many different contexts, as the 21 questioning this morning has brought out, but 22 what is before us is a very specific case or, 23 rather, two very specific similar cases, and it 24 has to do with teachers in a religiously 25 affiliated elementary school.

1	So suppose these teachers taught in a
2	secondary school and they taught exactly one
3	subject and that is religion. Students came for 4	50 minutes a day and they had a religious class
5	and it was taught by these teachers.
6	Would they qualify?
7	MR. FISHER: Justice Alito, is your 8	assumption in that hypothetical that they 9	that those teachers have no other indicia of 10	ministerial status, that they don't have any 11	special training or title or the like?
12	JUSTICE ALITO: Well, they have
13	they have the training that the school thinks is 14	sufficient and they are not labeled minister.
15	Do you appreciate that the very term, minister,
16	treats different religions differently? It is a 17	predominantly Christian/Protestant term. And as 18	you apply it to other religions, it becomes
19	its application becomes less and less clear.
20	So they do one thing, they teach 21	religion, and they have the title of teacher of 22	religion in a Catholic school.
23	MR. FISHER: Well, Justice
24	JUSTICE ALITO: Do they qualify?
2.5	MR. FISHER: Justice Alito. I think

1 it's -- the reason I ask, and I apologize, is 2 that I think it's going to be an uncommon 3 situation where that person is going to have no other formal indicia of ministerial status.
 5
                JUSTICE ALITO: Does now having -- 6
                MR. FISHER: But if you had that sort of a case -- I'm sorry.
7 8
                JUSTICE ALITO: Go ahead.
9
                MR. FISHER: Oh, I'm sorry. If you 10 had that sort of a case, we think that person would probably not be a minister still, but you don't have to decide that here obviously.
12
1.3
                JUSTICE ALITO: Why would that person not be a minister?
15
                MR. FISHER: The person wouldn't be a minister in that case because I think -- at
17 least arguably, because even then the person 18 would not be assuming a person -- a place -- a 19 position of spiritual leadership of the 20 congregation. And we think that's what the core 21 of the ministerial exception is about.
```

- 22 And, Justice Alito, maybe it helps --
- JUSTICE ALITO: Why was that the core
- 24 --
- 25 MR. FISHER: -- for me to --

1 JUSTICE ALITO: -- of the -- I would 2 be more comfortable if we jettisoned the whole term "ministerial exception" because I do think 3 it's discriminatory, but why is there less of a 4 5 religious autonomy issue and why is there not a 6 very central religious autonomy issue there?
 7
                The -- the function of teaching a 8 religion to new generations is central.
9
                MR. FISHER: Yeah, Justice Alito, I 10 don't deny that for one minute, and I think that is why the schools have every -- every ability
12 to make free exercise arguments because of the 13 absolute centrality of that function.
                But remember -- and I'm happy to
15 jettison the "ministerial exception" label.
      What we're really talking about here is when are 16 17 the schools or when are religious employers 18 immune. When are they -- what does it -- when 19 do they need absolute, what some courts call 20 ecclesiastical immunity? And to get there, you 21 need not just free exercise concerns in play but 22 you need Establishment Clause concerns in play.
2.3
                And I think, Justice Alito, with all 24 fairness, you've identified what I would think 25 of as the edge case, which is a case where
```

- 1 somebody teaches religion full-time as their job
- 2 but doesn't have any other ministerial --
- JUSTICE ALITO: Well, what is the
- 4 difference --
- 5 MR. FISHER: -- considerations in
- 6 play.
- JUSTICE ALITO: -- what is the
- 8 fundamental difference between that situation
- 9 and the situation of an elementary school
- 10 teacher who teaches everything, including
- 11 religion? And for a school that is set up by a
- 12 religious body, the teaching of religion is
- 13 central.
- 14 That is why -- that's the very reason
- 15 why these schools are set up. Otherwise, there
- 16 would be no reason. The students could go to
- 17 the -- to the public school and not have to pay
- any tuition. So it's central to their mission
- 19 and the fact that it is done by -- in an
- 20 elementary school by one teacher who teaches
- 21 everything, including religion, why should that
- 22 make a difference whether it's structured that
- 23 way or it's structured as it might be in a
- 24 secondary school?
- MR. FISHER: I think the difference,

- 1 Justice Alito, is when somebody teaches only 2 religion and nothing else, their stature is as 3 more of an expert on the faith and a preacher of the faith. 4 5 When you have somebody who is a 6 general curriculum teacher and who just happens to pick up the workbook for 40 minutes a day and 7 8 teach religion during that segment of the day, 9 that person isn't seen, I don't think, as -- as 10 holding the same degree of position in -- in the church hierarchy in terms -- in terms of church 11 12 leadership. And remember, Justice Alito, I don't 1.3 14 think there's any possible way to distinguish 15 the general curriculum teacher who teaches religion 40 minutes a day from the science 16 17 teacher, the history teacher, the English 18 teacher, who probably, once you tally up the 19 number of minutes in that day where religion comes into play, is teaching at least 40 minutes 20 21 worth of religion if not anything more. 22 So just in terms of consequences,
- Justice Alito, you take a step from a very small group of teachers in schools to hundreds of thousands of teachers in K through 12 across the

1 country --2 JUSTICE ALITO: Well, we may not --3 MR. FISHER: -- and many hundreds of 4 thousands more. 5 JUSTICE ALITO: -- we may or may not 6 take the step, but that -- that -- those other teachers are not at issue here. What is at 7 8 issue here is exactly -- is an elementary school 9 teacher who teaches religion as well as other 10 things. MR. FISHER: Well, Justice Alito, just 11 12 in terms of numbers, I think even there you 13 have, I think, about 150,000 teachers in front 14 of you in this case that as -- as the lower 15 court case law developed for Hosanna-Tabor were never considered to be ministers. 16 And I don't -- as I said, just with 17 18 all due respect, I don't think there's any 19 meaningful way to distinguish, as the Catholic 20 bishops brief says, as the American Jewish 21 Committee brief says, as the Catholic colleges 22 brief says, all these briefs are on the other 23 side of the case of mine -- from me, they all 24 stress there's no way to distinguish somebody 25 who teaches a secular subject with religion

- 1 infused from somebody who teaches as my clients
- 2 did in this case.
- 3 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 4 Sotomayor?
- 5 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Mr. Fisher, I
- 6 understand the government supported Mrs. Biel
- 7 just two years ago in the Ninth Circuit --
- 8 MR. FISHER: Correct.
- 9 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: -- and argued that
- 10 merely teaching two hours per week, spent
- 11 teaching religion, that that didn't qualify her
- 12 as a minister.
- 13 It's now said something -- Ms. Ratner
- said something that has taken me by surprise,
- which is she seems to be saying that the Ninth
- 16 Circuit got this particular case wrong because
- 17 they were using labels as talismanic.
- 18 Did you understand that argument by
- 19 her? And, if you did, why is she wrong?
- 20 MR. FISHER: Well, I -- I -- I think
- just in terms of what the Ninth Circuit did, the
- 22 court was at -- was clear to say that we're not
- 23 simply resting this on the absence of the label
- 24 minister, but we're looking at all the factors
- in Hosanna-Tabor itself and saying that,

- 1 overall, in the totality of the circumstances,
- 2 there are not enough here.
- 3 The Ninth Circuit also said in its
- 4 opinion that no other court has deemed teachers
- 5 like these to be ministers ever before that had
- 6 so little religious leadership as part of their
- 7 -- their duties.
- 8 And they were -- the Ninth Circuit was
- 9 right about that. They were right even after
- 10 Hosanna-Tabor. There's only one case that's
- 11 close, which is out of the Seventh Circuit, and
- the Ninth Circuit distinguished that case, but,
- more generally, as I said, the Ninth Circuit's
- 14 outcome here was not just what the government
- asked for, it's what the government itself asked
- 16 for for decades, going all the way back to the
- 17 President Reagan administration, is that lay
- 18 teachers who teach some religion are on one side
- of the scale, and other people who are core
- 20 spiritual leaders in seminary schools and the
- 21 like are on the other hand -- are on the other
- 22 side of the scale.
- So it really is a sea change -- even
- as to teachers, leaving everything else aside,
- 25 it is truly a sea change that is being requested

- 1 by the other side here today in terms of how
- 2 teachers in schools are classified and whether
- 3 they have any employment rights at all or -- or,
- 4 in fact, whether at least if you follow the way
- 5 the lower courts have -- have implemented the
- 6 ministerial exception, you basically have
- 7 employment law-free zones in all religious
- 8 schools.
- 9 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: The Fourth Circuit
- in Rayburn used the "primarily religious
- 11 function" test. You haven't adopted that or
- 12 even spoke about it in your brief.
- Can you tell me what you think the
- 14 strengths or limits of that test might be?
- MR. FISHER: Justice Sotomayor, we - think that Hosanna-Tabor is consistent with
- 17 Rayburn and indeed -- and also consistent with
- our test. What Rayburn did is it dealt with a
- 19 case where a -- a person applied for a position
- 20 called a pastoral care position.
- 21 And even though the woman in that case
- 22 who applied for the position didn't have a
- 23 ministerial title, what Judge Wilkinson said is
- 24 because of the way this church is structured, it
- was Seventh-day Adventist, doesn't give women

1 ordained titles, that cannot be determinative. 2 And we agree with that. We say that function should be a cross-check, function 3 should be part of the analysis to make sure that 4 5 you're not disadvantaging minority religions or 6 otherwise being too formalistic in the analysis. So we agree with what Judge Wilkinson said. 7 8 I think what -- what might be the 9 disconnect between what you're hearing from the 10 different parties in this case is it's true that the other side can pull a quote out of Rayburn 11 12 and pull a quote out of cases both before and 1.3 after Hosanna-Tabor that say function should be 14 what controls. 15 But I think what you find if you look at all those cases is those are all cases where 16 17 there really truly was an exceptional 18 circumstances at play, where there were special 19 reasons, like in Rayburn, why the more objective 20 factors didn't provide the right answer. And, 21 again, we agree that then function does -- does 22 have an enhanced role in that circumstance. 2.3 But another way to answer the 24 question, Justice Sotomayor, is to say remember, 25 we're asking for what lower courts have done on

1 the ground; just make it concrete and say what 2 were lay teachers' status for the decades up to and even after Hosanna-Tabor. 3 And the status was non-ministers. And 4 5 there's no way to reconcile those holdings, 6 those concrete holdings, with the other side's view that, first of all, the controlling inquiry 7 8 is whether somebody performs any important 9 religious functions, and, secondly, what the 10 government and now Petitioners themselves say, which is you defer to the religious employers 11 12 themselves as to that question. If that were the real test, you would 1.3 14 have millions of people falling within the 15 ministerial exception. And I don't see how you could make any sense of what the lower courts 16 have done for decades if that were the test. 17 18 JUSTICE SOTOMAYOR: Thank you. 19 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice Kagan? 20 JUSTICE KAGAN: Mr. Fisher, I'd like to take you back to Justice Alito's questions, 21 because some of what you said surprised me. 22 2.3 With respect to a teacher who is a 24 full-time teacher of religion, teaching 25 religious doctrine, teaching religious practice,

- 1 teaching religious texts, any of those things, I
- 2 would have thought that Hosanna-Tabor, even
- 3 though it has the thing about commissioning and
- 4 title and so forth, you know, thinks of those
- 5 people whose job it is to teach religion and to
- 6 basically bring up the next generation in
- 7 important understandings of religious doctrine
- 8 and practice, that those people would be
- 9 covered.
- But you said no, and so I wanted to
- just sort of say why?
- 12 MR. FISHER: Justice Kagan, I think
- what I said is I think that's the hardest case
- 14 for me. That's the edge case.
- 15 And I can make arguments both ways
- that I really wouldn't have to win here. I
- think what I really want to do is persuade you
- 18 that those people are different from the lay
- 19 teachers that I represent here.
- 20 But just to answer your question
- 21 directly, I do think that somebody who did only
- that function and had no other training, title,
- or -- or even had to be of the same state to
- 24 perform that job, I think that that person --
- you could still question whether that person is 1 central to the establishment of religion. 2 Remember, I think there would be very 3 strong free exercise interests in play there, but that particular person, I don't think, is 4 5 involved with establishing the church. 6 I said, Justice Kagan, I -- I -- I freely admit you can disagree with me on that and draw the 7 8 line between people who teach religion full-time 9 and people who are otherwise lay teachers 10 teaching a general curriculum or teaching a secular subject with religion infused. 11 12 JUSTICE KAGAN: Well, where do we draw that line then? I mean, suppose that I think 1.3 14 that the full-time religion teacher is -- is 15 protected by this exemption. Then I think Justice Alito raises a 16 fair point here. It's like, well, in an 17 18 elementary school, maybe you have to teach some 19 other subjects too, so maybe it's a half-time 20 religious teacher or maybe it's a quarter-time. 21 Where do we draw that line? 22 MR. FISHER: I think that line holds 23 up pretty well, Justice Kagan just in terms of 24 just the basic idea that somebody teaching 25 religion all day is going to be different than

- 1 somebody teaching it just for a small part of
- 2 the day as part of a general curriculum.
- 3 And maybe this is the way to think
- 4 about it, Justice Kagan. This -- even if you
- 5 strip away all the other objective factors, the
- 6 school is going to hire somebody under slightly
- 7 different criteria, with a different idea in
- 8 mind to be the religion teacher in a school,
- 9 compared to somebody who's going to be the
- 10 general curriculum teacher.
- 11 So, yes, religion in a Catholic school
- or other religious school may be particularly
- important, but just like science and math and
- 14 all the other subjects, the -- the school isn't
- 15 necessarily going to think that this person
- needs to be a leader and an expert in that field
- 17 to hold the position.
- 18 JUSTICE KAGAN: And -- and -- and what
- of the question of whether the person is a
- 20 member of the faith? And, you know, as I
- 21 suggested to Ms. Ratner, I was surprised by the
- 22 emphasis that they put on that, but, on the - other hand, I suppose I can think of there --
- 24 there -- you know, a -- a -- a yeshiva says that
- 25 there's a non-Jewish great Talmud scholar and --

- 1 and -- and hires that person. Why shouldn't
- 2 that person count?
- 3 MR. FISHER: Justice Kagan, we do not
- 4 think that -- that co-religion is an -- is an
- 5 on/off switch. We just think it's a very, very
- 6 strong objective factor in our column in this
- 7 case, and it ought to be an important objective
- 8 factor.
- 9 The way Hosanna-Tabor put it, and I
- 10 think the way you put it earlier in the
- 11 argument, was whether somebody was not just a
- member of the faith but a special person within
- 13 the membership of the faith who -- who is -- has
- 14 the stewardship over that congregation or that
- 15 religion. And it's just a very, very odd thing
- to say that somebody who is not even a member of
- 17 the faith and may fervently believe in a
- 18 different faith is somehow a minister of that
- 19 religion.
- 20 And, Justice Kagan, I think that
- 21 hypothetical is what really does a good job of
- 22 prying apart the two different strands of
- 23 constitutional law in the First Amendment that
- 24 are relevant here.
- 25 Absolutely, when a school hires a

- 1 teacher to, say, teach religion to our students,
- 2 and even do it devotionally if you can, that is
- 3 something on which the school has very, very
- 4 strong free exercise interests in. And so they
- 5 can immediately fire that person if they're not
- 6 pleased with the way the person is teaching
- 7 their religion or anything else.
- But we just don't think that's an
- 9 Establishment Clause question. It's a very odd
- 10 thing to say the -- that the government is
- 11 establishing religion by saying to a school, for
- 12 positions where you don't even care whether the
- person is of your religion, and you hire and
- 14 fire them for reasons that have nothing to do
- with your religion, you're entitled to
- 16 categorical -- categorical immunity for those
- 17 decisions because of the First Amendment. That
- just seems like an odd conclusion and I think
- 19 tells you there's something wrong with the
- analysis on the other side.
- JUSTICE KAGAN: Thank you.
- 22 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 23 Gorsuch?
- JUSTICE GORSUCH: Counsel, so we've
- gone from the full-time religion teacher to the

- 1 part-time religion teacher, and the line that
- 2 I'm -- I'm trying to -- I'm struggling with that
- 3 you're drawing there is the part-time teacher's
- 4 less important, but what if the school can't
- 5 afford one, a full-time teacher? Maybe they can
- 6 only afford a part-time teacher.
- 7 You -- you mentioned that you thought
- 8 it important that they be part of the faith, but
- 9 then you withdrew from that a bit, recognizing
- 10 that one could be part of another faith and also
- 11 minister in this faith, Protestants, Catholics,
- 12 different reform sort of Jews, whatever.
- So where -- I'm struggling with where
- 14 you draw the line and -- and how much
- 15 entanglement you're -- you're going to get us --
- 16 both sides are going to get us in here in
- deciding what's an important enough person in --
- in a particular faith and how we avoid that,
- 19 that difficulty.
- 20 MR. FISHER: So, Justice Gorsuch, let
- 21 me talk first about the part-time hypothetical
- 22 and then the importance and entanglement.
- On the part-time question, I -- I may
- 24 not fully understand your hypothetical, but I --
- 25 but I -- but I think that if a school said we're

- 1 limited funds, we want -- teaching religion in
- our school is very important to us, but we don't
- 3 have the funds to hire a full-time religion
- 4 teacher, we're just going to hire a part-time
- 5 teacher, I think that whatever answer you would
- 6 give to the full-time religion teacher who
- 7 taught only religion would also apply to the
- 8 part-time --
- 9 JUSTICE GORSUCH: Okay, let me change
- 10 --
- 11 MR. FISHER: -- teacher.
- 12 JUSTICE GORSUCH: -- the hypothetical
- 13 then. What if -- what if the members of the
- 14 congregation believed that all persons are
- ministers of the faith, bishops maybe even, and
- that they are all equally capable of teaching
- 17 religion and -- and that's something they all
- 18 wish to do part-time while also teaching other
- 19 subjects?
- 20 MR. FISHER: Well, Justice Gorsuch, I
- 21 think that Hosanna-Tabor itself, you know, if
- you're talking about that in terms of a labeling
- 23 exercise, Hosanna-Tabor itself said that -- that
- that would not be enough.
- 25 And I think that just again highlights

- 1 the real issue in front of the Court. It's not
- 2 whom the religion considers to be its ministers
- 3 or even whom the religion considers to be
- 4 performing its most important religious
- 5 functions.
- It's who among employees of religious
- 7 employers are performing such -- such vital
- 8 duties to the establishment of the church that
- 9 any qualification requirements or any legal
- 10 enforcement having to do with their rights or --
- or qualifications would necessarily run afoul of
- 12 the Establishment Clause?
- And I think if we just get away from
- 14 labels, I wholeheartedly agree there are
- enormous entanglement questions in asking what
- is important or -- or -- or even who -- who
- 17 religions consider to be their minister.
- 18 I think the very problem with the
- other side's test, and if -- and you just read
- 20 the materials that we've cited and they will
- 21 tell you is it is very clear that the other --
- 22 that -- that religious employers sincerely and
- 23 deeply believe that all of their nurses, all of
- their teachers, even all of their administrators
- 25 and janitors are performing important religious

- 1 functions in terms of the religious mission of
- 2 that church, and so that can't be the question.
- 3 And so I think the question is the
- 4 legal question arising from the First Amendment
- 5 as to who is involved with the establishment of
- 6 the church. That's the only way you can get to
- 7 immunity.
- 8 And so I think perhaps a -- perhaps
- 9 just that first principles approach or even that
- 10 textual approach kind of helps shed some light
- on the situation and keep courts a little more
- on the law side of the line --
- JUSTICE GORSUCH: Mr. Fisher --
- MR. FISHER: -- and a little less on
- 15 the religion.
- JUSTICE GORSUCH: -- you say that we
- 17 -- we -- we -- we can't -- we can't -- we
- 18 shouldn't focus on -- on their sincerely held
- 19 religious beliefs, but that is what we do
- 20 elsewhere in -- in First Amendment
- 21 jurisprudence. We don't second-guess those
- 22 sincerely held religious beliefs.
- 23 Why -- why would we do it here and
- second-guess who they deem a minister?
- MR. FISHER: No, that's my point,

- 1 Justice Gorsuch. I don't think you should
- 2 second-quess what -- well -- well, let me be
- 3 clear here. I don't think you should
- 4 second-guess what religious institutions define
- 5 as their own religious beliefs or values.
- I don't think you should second-guess
- 7 whether they sincerely believe that employees
- 8 perform important religious functions. But that
- 9 just shows that that can't possibly be the right
- 10 test here.
- 11 And I think your earlier questions
- 12 pointed that out. And so you're exactly right,
- that courts should stay out of that business.
- And so what's the solution then? Well, we think
- what the solution is, is that these courts
- should look to the objective factors that are
- outlined in Hosanna-Tabor, the things that are
- 18 more legalistic and the things that are more ex
- 19 ante decisions of the church as to who to
- 20 designate as its spiritual leaders.
- 21 And then ask that legal question about
- 22 -- about function and duties through the lens of
- 23 the Establishment Clause as a matter of first
- 24 principles. We think it's telling, Justice
- 25 Gorsuch, that for centuries of history that is

- 1 discussed on the other side of this case,
- there's not one single example of a person who
- 3 was not a titled member of the clergy receiving
- 4 the kind of protection they're being requested
- 5 today.
- 6 We think if there were this deeply
- 7 rooted First Amendment rule that they're
- 8 describing, there would be thousands of cases,
- 9 millions of cases because they're talking about
- 10 expanding who is covered by the ministerial
- 11 exception from primarily people that have
- 12 objective indicia of ministerial status to
- making them truly the minority among a sea of
- 14 employees, just -- just teachers alone, who have
- important religious duties but have never been
- 16 thought to fall within the ministerial
- 17 exception.
- JUSTICE GORSUCH: Thank you.
- 19 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Justice
- 20 Kavanaugh?
- JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Thank you, Mr.
- 22 Chief Justice.
- 23 And good afternoon and welcome, Mr.
- 24 Fisher. I want to start with a question that
- 25 comes from the amicus brief of the Milwaukee

- 1 Jewish Day School. They say that the Ninth
- 2 Circuit's approach, the more formalistic or
- 3 objective approach, means that, in their words,
- 4 "Jewish schools have fared markedly worse" under
- 5 that test, under the Ninth Circuit's formulation
- 6 at least of that test.
- 7 I want to get your reaction to that
- 8 and how we can prevent that.
- 9 MR. FISHER: Well, Justice Kavanaugh,
- 10 I haven't seen any empirical proof for that
- 11 statement, and we don't see why that would be
- 12 the case.
- 13 Remember, the Ninth Circuit itself
- 14 harmonized its decision with the Seventh
- 15 Circuit's Grussgott case, which dealt with the
- Jewish Day School and said that even there, the
- teacher had special training to be teaching in
- 18 that school and that teacher may well be
- 19 different.
- 20 And -- and, Justice Kavanaugh, if I
- 21 would just return you -- I know I've said this
- 22 before, but the cases we cite in red brief -- in
- our red brief in Footnote 1 deal with schools of
- 24 the Christian faith, of Jewish faith, and I
- 25 think even some other faiths.

1 And across the board, we see a 2 consistent treatment of lay teachers like our clients here being outside of the ministerial 3 exception. So --4 5 JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Okay. The next 6 question is: In terms of formulating the legal 7 test, as the Court said in Hosanna-Tabor, it's 8 enough in the first case just to list the 9 factors. We may have to refine that in this 10 case. If we refined it by adopting Justice 11 12 Alito's concurrence, what would be the problems, 13 if any, with that from your perspective? 14 MR. FISHER: Well, I -- I think the -we agree with much of the concurrence, Justice 15 Kavanaugh. We agree that title -- certainly, 16 the -- certainly, the moniker minister but that 17 18 titles more generally shouldn't be 19 determinative. 20 And we -- and we agree that function 21 is important. And we further agree, as I was 22 just saying, that what the Court ought to do, 23 particularly if it wants to be careful in this 24 highly sensitive area, is follow the vast 25 experience of the lower courts.

1 Now where I depart from the 2 concurrence -- and I -- and I just -this is just my own difficulty understanding it, 3 is that concurrence leaves out all of the cases 4 that we cite in Footnote 1 of our -- of our 5 6 brief. So the concurrence on the one hand says 7 we're saying to be consistent with past law but 8 then suggests -- I think you're right, Justice 9 Kavanaugh, has some suggestions that perhaps --10 perhaps a broader ministerial exception for teachers would be appropriate. 11 12 JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Okay. 1.3 MR. FISHER: And I think the way that we would tell the Court --14 15 JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: I'm sorry to interrupt, but I want to get another question or 16 17 two in. 18 You mentioned earlier a religious 19 teacher who just picks up -- a religion teacher 20 who just picks up the handbook and you referred 21 to someone like that having no training. 22 And I -- I guess I would question the 23 training point. There's no way to do this 24 empirically, but my guess is a lot of religion 25 teachers would say their life is their training.

- 2 --
- 3 JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: How would you
- 4 respond to that?
- 5 MR. FISHER: Well, I -- I -- I think
- 6 -- I think I'd respond to that by returning to
- 7 one of Mr. Rassbach's own answers when he was
- 8 asked is it enough to be a model or a witness.
- 9 I think he said no.
- 10 And so I think there's something more
- 11 than being a model of the faith or using your
- own personal experience because I don't see how
- you would distinguish the teachers in this case
- if that were the -- a proper touchstone from the
- 15 hundreds of thousands or millions of other
- 16 employees of religious institutions who are told
- in their handbooks, in their contracts, by their
- supervisors to carry out themselves during work
- 19 hours and their lives according to the faith.
- JUSTICE KAVANAUGH: Thank you very
- 21 much, Mr. Fisher.
- 22 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, Mr.
- 23 Fisher. You have a minute or so to wrap up if
- 24 you'd like.
- MR. FISHER: Thank you. Did I hear

1 somebody else wanted to ask a question? Okay. 2 Thank -- thank you, Mr. Chief Justice. With no other questions, I'll just simply return 3 the Court to what I think is important to bear 4 5 in mind as the overall question in this case, 6 which is when is categorical immunity required on the one hand and when is it not enough to say 7 8 you're -- you're entitled as a statutory matter 9 to choose people of your own religion to work 10 for you and you're also entitled as a statutory matter and as a free exercise matter to hire and 11 12 fire and set their terms and conditions of employment according to your religious values. 13 14 And we think the lay teachers here 15 fall on the latter side of the line. It is enough to give the schools in this case the 16 ability to hire, fire, discipline, and otherwise 17 18 set the terms and conditions of employment 19 according to their religious values. And it is too much and it would blow a 20 21 hole in our nation's civil rights laws and our 22 employment laws in general to say that 23 categorical immunity applies and so schools can 24 pay people different amounts, use race, sex, 25 other private characteristics even when they

1 have nothing to do with the religion and the 2 religious values at stake. 3 So we ask the Court to affirm. 4 CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you, 5 counsel. 6 Mr. Rassbach, two minutes for 7 rebuttal. 8 REBUTTAL ARGUMENT OF ERIC C. RASSBACH 9 ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS 10 MR. RASSBACH: Thank you, Mr. Chief Justice, and may it please the Court: 11 12 A -- a few points. The first is that 13 the proof is in the pudding, and we have the 14 pudding here. The ministerial exception has 15 been working well for decades and has been using the functional consensus both before and after 16 17 Hosanna-Tabor. 18 And you look at pages 8 through 9 of 19 the yellow brief, we explain that there are 20 other cases where lay teachers and -- and have 21 been decided under -- under the functional test. 22 So there -- I would advert to the fact that the -- the federal government said there

Heritage Reporting Corporation

Teacher cases are common and they get decided are three buckets, pastors, musicians, teachers.

24

- 1 under the functional consensus all the time.
- 2 And I would say post-Hosanna-Tabor,
- 3 there's been a real crystallization among the
- 4 lower courts around the Alito concurrence in
- 5 Hosanna-Tabor.
- By contrast, the Respondents' test has
- 7 never been used. And their claims of things
- 8 like, you know, nurses, lots and lots of nurse
- 9 cases -- there haven't been nurse cases in four
- 10 decades. There's not going to start being a lot
- 11 now.
- 12 There's no need to decide the
- 13 co-religionist issue in this case. In this
- 14 case, they -- they are -- they were
- 15 co-religionists and both schools wanted their
- 16 teachers to be Catholic, just like in
- 17 Hosanna-Tabor, when there were non- -- not
- 18 people from that same religion that were used --
- 19 there were sometimes gap fillers employed.
- 20 And, finally, this is a heartland
- 21 case. These teachers are the primary teacher of
- the faith. They are the stewards of the faith.
- 23 They are the leaders of their classroom. They
- 24 -- they -- the function of teaching the next
- 25 generation is central, as Mr. Fisher just

1	conceded. These these are the people who
2	will teach the faith to the next generation. If 3	if they don't do it, no one else will.
4	The decisions below would replace
5	Hosanna-Tabor's well-designed framework for 6	deciding delicate church/state questions with a 7	constitutional thicket. They should be
8	reversed.
9	Thank you.
10	CHIEF JUSTICE ROBERTS: Thank you,
11	counsel. The case is submitted.
12	(Whereupon, at 1:14 p.m., the case was 13	submitted.)
